WILL DISCUSS STATE PARKS, LEAGUE MEET

TIMELY TOPICS TO FEATURE COMMERCE DINNER.

W. A. Warren and W. E. Lockhart
Are Scheduled to Be Main
Speakers Tonight.

Palo Duro Canyon and the District One Interscholastic League meet will hold the spotlight at the April meeting of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce tonight, according to an announcement by D. A. Shirley, chairman of the program committee.

The dinner-meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the basement of the Methodist Church, and the food will be prepared as usual, by women of the church.

The slogan for today's meeting is "An Attendance of 100" and every effort has been made to draw a crowd of that size to the dinner according to John S. Humphreys, chairman of the membership committee, who has been in charge of ticket sales.

W. A. Warren, president of the chamber, will speak on "The value to Canyon and Randall County of a road through and a state park in the Palo Duro canyon." Recent unification of the sentiment for a state park in the Palo Duro, and plans laid at an inter-city meeting at Amarillo this week, make Mr. Warren's subject particularly timely.

Much of the scenic beauty of the canyon is located in Canyon territory and a state park, if it included logical parts of the canyon, would be in the vicinity of the city, citizens who have studied the situation, believe.

W. E. Lockhart, director general of District One, Interscholastic League, will talk on "What the Interscholastic League Means to Canyon and the College." Mr. Lockhart has directed the work of the League for several years and is thoroughly acquainted with it from all angles.

His talk on the organization was expected to show the Chamber of Commerce how to more definitely co-operate with the League to bring all possible benefits to the city. The Chamber of Commerce spends several hundred dollars each year in assisting general work of the league.

Mr. Lockhart's talk will come on the eve of the league meeting here. More than 1000 students from scores of Panhandle schools will be in the city Friday and Saturday for the events.

A special musical number will be furnished by Miss Ruth Strain of the College, and Helen Woods, student of Miss Rebecca Thayer of Canyon High School, will read, according to the announced program.

The semi-finals for the South will be held in New Orleans, and the final will be held in Washington. Many prizes are offered in the state contests, as well as the semi-finals and the national contest.

Miss Angie Debo will be in charge of the contest for this district. The contest will be held here at the same time as the district interscholastic meet, but will not be a part of this meet.

Children Urged to Not Pull Flowers Growing in Canyon

An appeal has been made by many citizens the past few days to the News to ask parents to caution their children from pulling flowers which are growing on the lawns in Canyon.

One lady had a splendid tulip bed practically ruined when small children decided that they wished to pull the pretty flowers.

The lilac bushes are exceptionally pretty this year, and children have been seen to break off large branches and carry away the blooms.

The damage is not alone confined to small children, but even grown ups have been seen taking flowers from the lawns of the city.

It costs a lot of money to raise flowers. Those interested in a more beautiful city are pleading for protection from those who unthoughtfully are doing much damage.

Inter-City Relations Meeting of Rotarians to be Held Tuesday

Representatives from the seventeen Rotary Clubs of the Plains will meet next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at Cousins Hall for the first Inter-City Relations meeting to be held in this section. The meeting was proposed some weeks ago, and Canyon was chosen as the logical meeting place for this first inter-city relations series.

O. W. Gano is chairman of the arrangements committee from Canyon, and Dr. H. A. Brown is chairman of the program committee. It is expected that the Amarillo Rotary Club will bring its orchestra to the meeting next Tuesday.

Miss Mary E. Hudspeth talked Tuesday at the meeting of the Rotary Club regarding her year spent in Spain. She described the delightful experiences in that country. The American continent owes much to Spain, as that nation has settled 13 nations in North and South America, sending here her most vigorous manhood. In spite of the conception of our people that Spain is a backward nation, Miss Hudspeth describes the nation as being progressive in education, manufacturing and agriculture.

The people are industrious, friendly, courteous, helpful and home loving. They are not given over to fun and frolic, as the average American has pictured them.

First Concrete on Highway Poured on Hill North of Town

Concrete pouring on the new highway from Canyon to Amarillo was started Tuesday afternoon at the foot of the big hill north of Canyon. Three hundred feet was the result of the first afternoon's work, and yesterday rapid progress was made by the first force of men employed on the job.

W. A. French, who recently resigned, has been re-appointed and will continue as district highway engineer.

Happy Man Tells Experience of 378 Pullet Netting $752.50

The story of how 378 pullets netted him $752.50 in nine months' time from egg production alone, is told by J. H. Morgan, Happy, Route Two. Although raising chickens merely as a sideline to his wheat farming, Morgan stated that a few chickens furnished an income to farmers that often looks as attractive as that of a wheat or cotton farm.

Morgan originally purchased 1000 baby chicks from an early Spring hatch. Of this number, 898 survived. Exactly 520 roosters were sold for enough to pay for the initial cost of the flock, besides furnishing a profit, and the 378 pullets were kept for egg production.

From April 1 last year to Jan. 1, 1929, eggs from the flock brought $1,050. Feed, none of which was raised on the farm, cost Morgan $307.50, leaving a profit of $752.50, or a little more than $84 per month as the chickens' part in making the farm a paying proposition, according to Morgan.

S. D. Blackwell states that he has never seen better prospects for a wheat crop than there is in Randall county this year. He is highly pleased with the outlook for a prosperous year in the county.

D. A. Shirley, Bob Donald and George Mullins officiated Friday and Saturday at the district meet of the Interscholastic League held in Childress.

WAYSIDE WILL BE SCENE MEET CANYON PARK

DELEGATES FROM SEVERAL COUNTIES AT AMARILLO.

Will Push Canyon Scenic Highway
and Work for National Monument in Palo Duro Canyon.

Following a meeting in Amarillo Monday of representatives from nine Panhandle counties, another meeting of the newly elected executive committee, together with county officials will be held Friday in Wayside for the purpose of starting definite action toward the establishment of a Palo Duro Canyon Park or National Monument. More than fifty men and women showed a great interest in the meeting in Amarillo Monday, and fully that number are expected to meet in Wayside, where definite steps will be adopted.

Wayside has already dedicated a park to the state, consisting of 100 acres.

Canyon was represented Monday by W. A. Warren, W. J. Wooten, Judge B. F. Fronabarger, W. H. Upchurch, O. W. Gano, W. E. Bennett and Clyde W. Warwick.

Col. Harve H. Haines, of the Amarillo Board of City Development, acted as chairman of the session and J. E. Biggs, assistant manager of the Board, officiated as secretary.

The meeting dealt with ways and means of securing some sort of park designation for the canyons near here. Suggestions offered included construction of a scenic drive; individual county action on various sections of the canyon; making the canyon a park "district," with all counties contributing to the work; and asking for federal aid.

D. C. Colp of San Antonio, president of the state park board, was principal speaker. He urged immediate action along whatever line citizens of the Panhandle decided. While Mr. Colp pointed out the probable fallacy of asking for government aid and showed objections to other suggestions made, he proposed that the park be presented to the United States as a "national monument."

Under the "monument" plan, the president alone can accept the offer, after which the park will receive the same government supervision as a national park. In making a national park of the canyon, he said, it is necessary to have action by Congress which usually takes many years.

"The people of Austin, Dallas, Houston, and Fort Worth, as well as other Texas cities are five times as anxious to have you make a park of the Palo Duro canyon as are the people in and around Amarillo," he said. "Everywhere it is regarded as one of the best investments that could be made. Money received from the gasoline tax alone of the people who would visit the proposed park would more than pay for construction of highways and other improvements," he declared.

Clyde W. Warwick, representative to the state legislature from the 123rd district, pointed out that if the Palo Duro region is ever to be made a park, initial action will have to come from the immediate section of the Panhandle. There is not much chance for an appropriation from the state legislature, at least during the special session about to convene, he said. Mr. Warwick advocated the plan of constructing a scenic drive.

Other speakers included Dr. W. A. Warner, Claude; Dr. J. W. Stevens, Tulsa; Sam Braswell, Clarendon; Mrs. L. A. Wells, Amarillo; Miss Laura V. Hamner, Amarillo; and F. D. Emery, Chicago.

At the suggestion of Colonel Haines, the conference agreed to ask Panhandle-Plains of Texas, Inc., to sponsor the park movement. An executive committee composed of one representative from each county was appointed to meet with directors of that organization.

Members of the executive committee are W. A. Warren, Canyon; Sam Braswell, Clarendon; J. E. Swepton, Tulsa; Dr. W. A. Warner, Claude; Bill Gouldy, Plainview; C. W. Whittington, Amarillo; George Sager, Memphis; and O. R. Tipps, Silvertown.

M. M. Hughes, owner of the East End Grocery, has sold the store to Roy F. Barber, according to an announcement yesterday by Frank Hicks, operator of the store for the last two years. Mr. Barber, who has recently sold his store in Tulsa, took charge of the business here yesterday morning.

Mr. Hughes, former owner, lives in Vernon. The store here has been operated by Frank Hicks since Mr. Hughes bought it.

Inter-City Relations Meeting of Rotarians to be Held Tuesday

Representatives from the seven-teen Rotary Clubs of the Plains will meet next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at Cousins Hall for the first Inter-City Relations meeting to be held in this section. The meeting was proposed some weeks ago, and Canyon was chosen as the logical meeting place for this first inter-city relations series.

O. W. Gano is chairman of the arrangements committee from Canyon, and Dr. H. A. Brown is chairman of the program committee. It is expected that the Amarillo Rotary Club will bring its orchestra to the meeting next Tuesday.

Miss Mary E. Hudspeth talked Tuesday at the meeting of the Rotary Club regarding her year spent in Spain. She described the delightful experiences in that country. The American continent owes much to Spain, as that nation has settled 18 nations in North and South America, sending here her most vigorous manhood. In spite of the conception of our people that Spain is a backward nation, Miss Hudspeth describes the nation as being progressive in education, manufacturing and agriculture.

The people are industrious, friendly, courteous, helpful and home loving. They are not given over to fun and frolic, as the average American has pictured them.

First Concrete on Highway Poured on Hill North of Town

Concrete pouring on the new highway from Canyon to Amarillo was started Tuesday afternoon at the foot of the big hill north of Canyon. Three hundred feet was the result of the first afternoon's work, and yesterday rapid progress was made by the first force of men employed on the job.

W. A. French, who recently resigned, has been re-appointed and will continue as district highway engineer.

A. E. Dyatt, county engineer, stated yesterday that he was well pleased with the way the work was going, and predicted that with materials coming in steadily the work would progress rapidly.

The name of the firm is changed, with the change of location to the B. & G. Grocery. The owners announce that their business will be conducted in the same manner as heretofore, and that the continued patronage of their customers will be appreciated.

Happy Man Tells Ex- perience of 378 Pul- lets Netting $752.50

The story of how 378 pullets netted him $752.50 in nine months' time from egg production alone, is told by J. H. Morgan, Happy, Route Two. Although raising chickens merely as a sideline to his wheat farming, Morgan stated that a few chickens furnished an income to farmers that often looks as attractive as that of a wheat or cotton farm.

Morgan originally purchased 1000 baby chicks from an early Spring hatch. Of this number, 898 survived. Exactly 520 roosters were sold for enough to pay for the initial cost of the flock, besides furnishing a profit, and the 378 pullets were kept for egg production. From April 1 last year to Jan. 1, 1929, eggs from the flock brought $1,060. Feed, none of which was raised on the farm, cost Morgan $307.50, leaving a profit of $752.50, or a little more than $84 per month as the chickens' part in making the farm a paying proposition, according to Morgan.

S. D. Blackwell states that he has never seen better prospects for a wheat crop than there is in Randall county this year. He is highly pleased with the outlook for a prosperous year in the county.

D. A. Shirley, Bob Donald and George Mullins officiated Friday and Saturday at the district meet of the Interscholastic League held in Childress.

Miss Eppie Irons of Plainview visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Irons, over the week end.

WAYSIDE WILL BE SCENE MEET CANYON PARK

DELEGATES FROM SEVERAL COUNTIES AT AMARILLO.

Will Push Canyon Scenic Highway
and Work for National Monument in Palo Duro Canyon.

Following a meeting in Amarillo Monday of representatives from nine Panhandle counties, another meeting of the newly elected executive committee, together with county officials will be held Friday in Wayside for the purpose of starting definite action toward the establishment of a Palo Duro Canyon Park or National Monument.

More than fifty men and women showed a great interest in the meeting in Amarillo Monday, and fully that number are expected to meet in Wayside, where definite steps will be adopted.

Wayside has already dedicated a park to the state, consisting of 100 acres.

Canyon was represented Monday by W. A. Warren, W. J. Wooten, Judge B. F. Fronabarger, W. H. Upchurch, O. W. Gano, W. E. Bennett and Clyde W. Warwick.

Col. Harve H. Haines, of the Amarillo Board of City Development, acted as chairman of the session and J. E. Biggs, assistant manager of the Board, officiated as secretary.

The meeting dealt with ways and means of securing some sort of park designation for the canyons near here. Suggestions offered included construction of a scenic drive; individual county action on various sections of the canyon; making the canyon a park "district," with all counties contributing to the work; and asking for federal aid.

D. C. Colp of San Antonio, president of the state park board, was principal speaker. He urged immediate action along whatever line citizens of the Panhandle decided.

While Mr. Colp pointed out the probable fallacy of asking for government aid and showed objections to other suggestions made, he proposed that the park be presented to the United States as a "national monument."

Under the "monument" plan, the president alone can accept the offer, after which the park will receive the same government supervision as a national park. In making a national park of the canyon, he said, it is necessary to have action by Congress which usually takes many years.

"The people of Austin, Dallas, Houston, and Fort Worth, as well as other Texas cities are five times as anxious to have you make a park of the Palo Duro canyon as are the people in and around Amarillo," he said. "Everywhere it is regarded as one of the best investments that could be made. Money received from the gasoline tax alone of the people who would visit the proposed park would more than pay for construction of highways and other improvements," he declared.

Clyde W. Warwick, representative to the state legislature from the 123rd district, pointed out that if the Palo Duro region is ever to be made a park, initial action will have to come from the immediate section of the Panhandle. There is not much chance for an appropriation from the state legislature, at least during the special session about to convene, he said. Mr. Warwick advocated the plan of constructing a scenic drive.

Other speakers included Dr. W. A. Warner, Claude; Dr. J. W. Stevens, Tulsa; Sam Braswell, Clarendon; Mrs. L. A. Wells, Amarillo; Miss Laura V. Hamner, Amarillo; and F. D. Emery, Chicago.

At the suggestion of Colonel Haines, the conference agreed to ask Panhandle-Plains of Texas, Inc., to sponsor the park movement. An executive committee composed of one representative from each county was appointed to meet with directors of that organization.

Members of the executive committee are W. A. Warren, Canyon; Sam Braswell, Clarendon; J. E. Sweeney, Tulsa; Dr. W. A. Warner, Claude; Bill Goudy, Plainview; C. W. Whittington, Amarillo; George Sager, Memphis; and O. R. Tipps, Silverton.

Missing Woman Is Found Near Happy

Mrs. S. Stallings, who was reported missing late Tuesday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Wheeler was found early Wednesday at the home of J. W. Wesley of the Wayside community. Searching parties had been out nearly all night without finding traces of the 57-year-old woman.

Thompson Hardware Starts Work on Ex- tension of Building

Workmen started yesterday wrecking the frame addition on the rear of the Thompson Hardware Company main store here, preparatory to extending the brick building to the alley. The brick unit will add approximately 20 feet of length to the building.

When the new unit is completed the general offices of the company will be moved back from its present location, permitting extension of stock shelving into the space now occupied by the office.

An underground vault will be constructed beneath the new office location.

Lockers and laboratories for the use of employees will be included in the new unit.

The building is owned by Dr. J. M. Black.

Reorganization of the stock and revamping of display units in the main store has been underway since the first of the year, and the extension of the store building to the alley simply is another step in improvement plans, officers of the company said.

Shelving and display units already have been replaced in accordance with plans drawn for the company by a store arrangement specialist, and the general appearance of the store greatly improved.

Fire Destroys Brooder House Owned by Burton

A brooder house owned by S. D. Burton, sheltering about 75 high-bred chickens, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. All of the chickens were burned, it was reported. Failure of the fire siren to function when the alarm was turned in delayed the Canyon Volunteer Fire Company in reaching the fire, but use of the chemical truck proved sufficient to control the blaze.

East End Store Sold to Roy F. Barber Wednesday

Mr. Hughes, former owner, lives in Vernon. The store here has been operated by Frank Hicks since Mr. Hughes bought it.

LEGISLATIVE TRIPS

The News man was fortunate during the past session of the legislature in being appointed on all of the junketing trips made by members of the House of Representatives. Some members of the House do not like to make these trips, as it means hard work—traveling from early morning until late at night over all kinds of roads, eating at irregular periods and staying at undesirable places. But these trips are a liberal education to the members who are chosen to make the trip, and they mean a great deal in getting a better understanding of the workings of the state government.

The first trip we made was to inspect the state penitentiary system. The state owns 88,700 acres of land, widely scattered over south Texas. We saw a great deal of this land. Leaving Houston one morning at 8:00 o'clock we rode all day through the rain and mud. Every car in the bunch was stuck from one to eight times. It was a muddy, dirty bunch which finally got back to the hotel at 2:00 o'clock a.m., but all were glad to have been able to make this personal inspection of some of the farms. The trip consumed three days, and although almost completely exhausted by the hard trip, the members of the committee went back to Austin with a better opinion as to what should be done with the penitentiary system. More about this later.

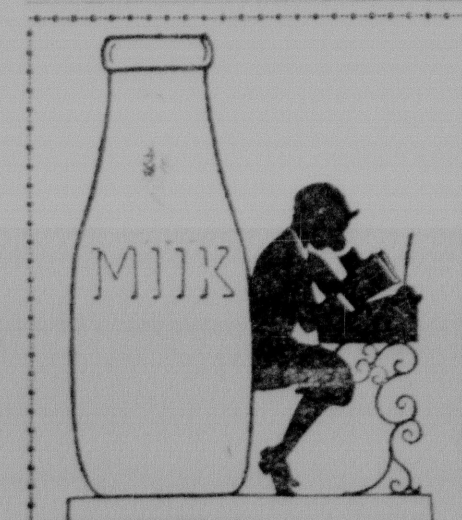

We made the trip with the legislative committee to Meridian to inspect the defunct Methodist College, which the good people of Meridian sought to have the state take over as a teachers college. This was another hard trip, starting at Austin at 7:00 o'clock in the morning, and returning to Austin at 2:30 o'clock the next morning. The trip was taken through a part of Texas that we had not visited before, and consequently we were delighted to have been able to see another part of the greatly diversified lands and scenery which Texas affords. The bill creating this college was passed by the Senate but was not reached in the House.

Last week we were on a five days trip which included the inspection of the Tech at Lubbock, the College here in Canyon, and the Oklahoma boundary. This latter trip promises to develop many interesting questions, and will require considerable legislation, regardless of the disposition made by the strip of land which was recently awarded to Texas by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Oklahoma delegation claims that it can point the way whereby the land may be transferred back to that state, thereby saving the people of the border strip a great deal of trouble, and inconvenience. It is claimed that should this land be transferred to Texas that the courts will be filled with suits for many years to come by those who would seek to wrest from the settlers along the border their land which they have bought and paid for. They call attention to the recent land bill passed in Texas over the veto of the Governor, and believe that this is only a little of the trouble which will confront the border counties if the land is taken over by Texas, and the right of prior filings are taken to the courts. They called attention also to the fact that all of the border strip is bonded for county, school, and some of it for city purposes. To take away this land from some of the local school districts in Oklahoma would greatly cripple these districts.

On the other hand, the Texas committee called attention to the fact that surveyors from the United States have definitely located the 100th Meridian which is named as the boundary line under the treaty with Spain. Texas has a peculiar situation, different from any state in the union so far as public lands are concerned. The legislature has no right to sell or barter away any of the public lands to any other state.

Both committees firmly demanded that the people who own the land shall not suffer as a consequence of the court decision. The strip is from 2000 feet to 4000 feet wide, and extends for more than 120 miles along the border. There are some 2500 people living in the strip, while there are hundreds of other land owners whose residence is not affected. Some of these people wish to remain in Oklahoma, while some would prefer to come to Texas. Some will have their land cut into an awkward shape if they come into Texas, the dividing line between the two states cutting some farm houses in two, while all along the line only a small strip of land will remain in Oklahoma. That these people shall receive a square deal is the firm determination of all members who have participated in the proceedings.

After visiting the people along the strip, and taking over the proposition for several hours, the conclusion was reached that both committees shall brief their position on the question and shall submit it to each other. If Oklahoma is able to point the way whereby Texas is able to sell this land to Oklahoma, the Texas delegation will consider the matter. However, it is firmly believed that no way will be found under the peculiar provisions of the constitution of Texas by which this transaction may be made from Texas to Oklahoma.

It was wonderful treatment that the boundary committee received on the inspection trip. The committee went through several Oklahoma towns along the border where receptions were held. At Dossenville, Texas, a dinner was given Wednesday noon. This town is almost on the border, and the Texans are very anxious that the newly acquired land shall come into the Lone Star State. At Wellington Wednesday night a banquet was given honoring Senator C. C. Small and members of the boundary commission. Representatives were present from practically every section of the Panhandle to bring greetings to the senator of this district who made a state reputation for himself at Austin in the passage of the Small land bill to validate the title to the dry river beds.

At Oklahoma City the representatives were received and entertained in a most delightful manner. A banquet was given Thursday night, and the new Governor gave a breakfast Friday morning. At both of these events, considerable time was given to the discussion of the boundary question.

Oklahoma has a very fine capitol building. It is modern in every way, and built along modern ideas of making the most of all space. The state is young, and all of the institutions are young, so that the new modern ideas in construction are seen on every hand.

It is of interest to know that among those who made the trip to Oklahoma, most of whom visited Canyon last week, there are several outstanding candidates for offices which mean a promotion in the political life of the state.

In the first place, there is Senator Clint Small, who will be a candidate for congress against Marvin Jones. Senator Small has been lucky in politics. He started as county attorney, was elevated to county judge, was elected mayor of Wellington, and then named district attorney, later being appointed as district judge. He became state senator without opposition to succeed Senator J. W. Reid. His people love him. The land owners of the Panhandle feel kindly for the valiant fight he made at Austin. There will be a very interesting political fight next summer when Clint Small and Marvin Jones clash horns.

Then there was Senator Walter Woodward, who is looking toward the state capitol, and whom the people of the Coleman territory are boosting for governor. He is a well known leader of West Texas. Senator Tomas Pollard of Tyler is a candidate for lieutenant governor. He has served four terms as state senator, and is popular in the upper house.

Cecil Storey, member of the House from Vernon, is considering the race for attorney general.

Our own Dewey Young of Wellington will likely be a candidate for Speaker of the House in the next session. Ray Holder of Dallas county is also being groomed for this place, and has an eye on a place in congress four years hence.

These men talk freely of their political aspirations when on a trip of this kind, and one learns to know them better under these conditions than would ever be possible while serving in Austin.

Many members refuse to take these trips, and others shun any kind of inspection jobs which take them outside of Austin while the legislature is in session, or during the recess period. Personally, we are delighted to have been able to make these trips, and believe that the time has been well spent. The special session starts next Monday, and as a result of the first hand information, we believe that we shall be better prepared to take a part in the deliberations than we should have been without the first hand information brought about in these junketing trips.

Does it require privation, duress, suffering, to bring out the very best within the human soul? There are those that seem to think so—but it is not the truth. Solitary confinement may find surcease in active mental occupation; but the human mind works best in an atmosphere of absolute freedom and content.

LEGISLATIVE TRIPS

The News man was fortunate during the past session of the legislature in being appointed on all of the junketing trips made by members of the House of Representatives. Some members of the House do not like to make these trips, as it means hard work—traveling from early morning until late at night over all kinds of roads, eating at irregular periods and staying at undesirable places. But these trips are a liberal education to the members who are chosen to make the trip, and they mean a great deal in getting a better understanding of the workings of the state government.

The first trip we made was to inspect the state penitentiary system. The state owns 68,700 acres of land, widely scattered over south Texas. We saw a great deal of this land. Leaving Houston one morning at 8:00 o'clock we rode all day through the rain and mud. Every car in the bunch was stuck from one to eight times. It was a muddy, dirty bunch which finally got back to the hotel at 2:00 o'clock a.m., but all were glad to have been able to make this personal inspection of some of the farms. The trip consumed three days, and although almost completely exhausted by the hard trip, the members of the committee went back to Austin with a better opinion as to what should be done with the penitentiary system. More about this later.

We made the trip with the legislative committee to Meridian to inspect the defunct Methodist College, which the good people of Meridian sought to have the state take over as a teachers college. This was another hard trip, starting at Austin at 7:00 o'clock in the morning, and returning to Austin at 2:30 o'clock the next morning. The trip was taken through a part of Texas that we had not visited before, and consequently we were delighted to have been able to see another part of the greatly diversified lands and scenery which Texas affords. The bill creating this college was passed by the Senate but was not reached in the House.

Last week we were on a five days trip which included the inspection of the Tech at Lubbock, the College here in Canyon, and the Oklahoma boundary. This latter trip promises to develop many interesting questions, and will require considerable legislation. Regardless of the disposition made by the strip of land which was recently awarded to Texas by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Oklahoma delegation claims that it can point the way whereby the land may be transferred back to that state, thereby saving the people of the border strip a great deal of trouble, and inconvenience. It is claimed that should this land be transferred to Texas that the courts will be filled with suits for many years to come by those who would seek to wrest from the settlers along the border their land which they have bought and paid for. They call attention to the recent land bill passed in Texas over the veto of the Governor, and believe that this is only a little of the trouble which will confront the border counties if the land is taken over by Texas, and the right of prior filings are taken to the courts. They called attention also to the fact that all of the border strip is bonded for county, school, and some of it for city purposes. To take away this land from some of the local school districts in Oklahoma would greatly cripple these districts.

On the other hand, the Texas committee called attention to the fact that surveyors from the United States have definitely located the 100th Meridian which is named as the boundary line under the treaty with Spain. Texas has a peculiar situation, different from any state in the union so far as public lands are concerned. The legislature has no right to sell or barter away any of the public lands to any other state.

Both committees firmly demanded that the people who own the land shall not suffer as a consequence of the court decision. The strip is from 2000 feet to 4000 feet wide, and extends for more than 120 miles along the border. There are some 2500 people living in the strip, while there are hundreds of other land owners whose residence is not affected. Some of these people wish to remain in Oklahoma, while some would prefer to come to Texas. Some will have their land cut into an awkward shape if they come into Texas, the dividing line between the two states cutting some farm houses in two, while all along the line only a small strip of land will remain in Oklahoma. That these people shall receive a square deal is the firm determination of all members who have participated in the proceedings.

After visiting the people along the strip, and talking over the proposition for several hours, the conclusion was reached that both committees shall brief their position on the question, and shall submit it to each other. If Oklahoma is able to point the way whereby Texas is able to sell this land to Oklahoma, the Texas delegation will consider the matter. However, it is firmly believed that no way will be found under the peculiar provisions of the constitution of Texas by which this transaction may be made from Texas to Oklahoma.

It was wonderful treatment that the boundary committee received on the inspection trip. The committee went through several Oklahoma towns along the border where receptions were held. At Dodsonville, Texas, a dinner was given Wednesday noon. This town is almost on the border, and the Texans are very anxious that the newly acquired land shall come into the Lone Star State. At Wellington Wednesday night a banquet was given honoring Senator C. C. Small and members of the boundary commission. Representatives were present from practically every section of the Panhandle to bring greetings to the senator of this district who made a state reputation for himself at Austin in the passage of the Small land bill to validate the title to the dry river beds.

At Oklahoma City the representatives were received and entertained in a most delightful manner. A banquet was given Thursday night, and the new Governor gave a breakfast Friday morning. At both of these events, considerable time was given to the discussion of the boundary question.

Oklahoma has a very fine capitol building. It is modern in every way, and built along modern ideas of making the most of all space. The state is young, and all of the institutions are young, so that the new modern ideas in construction are seen on every hand.

It is of interest to know that among those who made the trip to Oklahoma, most of whom visited Canyon last week, there are several outstanding candidates for offices which mean a promotion in the political life of the state.

In the first place, there is Senator Clint Small, who will be a candidate for congress against Marvin Jones. Senator Small has been lucky in politics. He started as county attorney, was elevated to county judge, was elected mayor of Wellington, and then named district attorney, later being appointed as district judge. He became state senator without opposition to succeed Senator J. W. Reid. His people love him. The land owners of the Panhandle feel kindly for the valiant fight he made at Austin. There will be a very interesting political fight next summer when Clint Small and Marvin Jones lock horns.

Then there was Senator Walter Woodward, who is looking toward the state capitol, and whom the people of the Coleman territory are boosting for governor. He is a well known leader of West Texas. Senator Tomas Pollard of Tyler is a candidate for lieutenant governor. He has served four terms as state senator, and is popular in the upper house.

Cecil Storey, member of the House from Vernon, is considering the race for attorney general.

Our own Dewey Young of Wellington will likely be a candidate for Speaker of the House in the next session. Ray Holder of Dallas county is also being groomed for this place, and has an eye on a place in congress four years hence.

These men talk freely of their political aspirations when on a trip of this kind, and one learns to know them better under these conditions than would ever be possible while serving in Austin.

Many members refuse to take these trips, and others shun any kind of inspection jobs which take them outside of Austin while the legislature is in session, or during the recess period. Personally, we are delighted to have been able to make these trips, and believe that the time has been well spent. The special session starts next Monday, and as a result of the first hand information, we believe that we shall be better prepared to take a part in the deliberations than we should have been without the first hand information brought about in these junketing trips.

Twelfth Installment

His withered figure seemed to have gathered strength and dignity, and his appearance and tone, as he gazed scornfully down at the girl at his feet, was full of a strange dramatic force. Her heart sank as she listened to him. This was no idle, vulgar passion, no morbid craving for evil, which animated him. It was a purpose which had become hallowed to him; something which he had come to look upon as his sacred right. She understood how her drawing back must seem to him. As though a flash of light had laid bare his mind, she saw how weak, how pitifully weak, any words of hers must sound, so she was silent.

He had commenced walking up and down the room; and, watching him fearfully, she saw that his manner was gradually changing. The unnatural calm into which he had momentarily relapsed was leaving him, and he was becoming every moment more and more excited. Fire flashed in his eyes, and he was muttering broken words and sentences to himself. Once he raised his clasped hands to the roof in a threatening gesture, and in the act of doing so she saw the blue flash of a stiletto in his breast pocket. It frightened her, and she moved toward the door.

It seems almost as though he read her purpose in her terror-stricken face, and it maddened him. He caught her by the wrist and thrust her back.

"You shall not leave this room, girl!" he cried. "Wait, and soon I will bring you news."

She stood, still panting, overcome for a moment by the strength of his grip. Before she could recover herself, he had caught up his hat and was gone. Outside, she heard the sound of a key in the lock. She was a prisoner!

Her first thought was the window. Alas! it was too small even for her to get her head through. She cried out. No one answered; there was no one to answer. She was alone in the cottage, and helpless, and away over the cliffs, toward Mallory Grange, she could see a small, dark figure walking steadily along, with bent head and swift steps. The cottage stood by itself a mile from the village, and was approached only by a cliff path. She turned away from the window in despair. It seemed to her then that the time for her final sacrifice had indeed come.

It was a warm, drowsy morning, and the air which floated in thru the open lattice window was heavy with the perfume of flowers, mingled with the placid silence was broken only by the murmurous buzzing of insects and the soft lapping of the tide upon the shingly sands. Within the room, a pale-faced girl knelt upon the floor, with her long, slim fingers stretched upward, and the passionate despair of death in her cold, white features. The sunshine laughed upon her hair, and glanced around her, bathing her beautiful face in its fresh, bright glow. Was it an answer to her prayer, she wondered—her prayer for peace and forgiveness? Oh, that it might be so! God grant it!

There was no fear in her face, though only a moment before she had taken out and swallowed the contents of that little packet of poison which had burned in her bosom for those last few days. But there had been just one passing shade of bitterness. Her life had been so short, so joyless, until there had come to her that brief taste of wonderful, amazing happiness. She was young to die—to die with the delirium of that passionate joy still burning in her veins.

"Yet, after all, it is best!" she whispered softly, at the end of that unspoken prayer; and with those words of calm resignation, a

She ran back along the path, and he followed her. They turned suddenly an abrupt corner, and came upon two men locked in one another's arms, and swaying backward and forward upon the short green turf. The lunatic, an immense fellow, more than six feet high, was clutching his opponent's throat with his left hand, while with his right he brandished a long table-knife with keenly-sharpened edge. The struggle was virtually over. The madman's strength was more than human, and desperately though he had struggled, Lord St. Maurice was lying exhausted and overcome in his arms.

With a final effort he turned his head at the sound of footsteps, and saw them come—his wife and this shrunken little old man. But close at hand though they were, nothing could help him now. He saw the steel flashing in the sunlight, and he closed his eyes.

The knife descended, but Lord St. Maurice remained unhurt. With a swiftness which seemed almost incredible, the Sicilian had sprung between them, and the knife was quivering in his side. Behind, the lunatic was struggling helplessly in the grasp of three keepers.

There was a wild cry of horror from Lady St. Maurice, a choking gasp of relief from her husband, and a horrid chuckle of triumph from the madman as he gazed upon his handiwork. But after that there was silence—a deep, awe-stricken silence—the silence of those who stand in the presence of death.

Count Marioni lay on the turf where he had sunk, very white and very still, with the blood drooping change crept softly in upon her face. It seemed almost as though, while yet on earth, there had come to her a touch of that exquisite spiritual beauty which follows only upon the extinction of all earthly passion, and the uplifting into a purer, sweeter life. And her eyes closed upon the sunlight, and darkness stole in upon her senses. She lay quite still upon the floor; but the smile still lingered upon her lips, making her face more lovely even in its cold repose than when the glow of youth and life had shone in her dark, clear eyes, and lent expression to her features. Saints like St. Francis of Assisi may die thus, but seldom women.

"Help! For God's sake, help!" A woman's cry of agony rang out upon the sweet morning stillness. Count Marioni, who had been hurrying on with downcast head, stood still in the cliff path and lifted his head. It was the woman whose memory he had cursed who stood before him—the woman on whom his vengeance was to fall.

Her face was as white as his own, and in the swiftness of her flight her hat had fallen away and her hair was streaming in the breeze. Yet in that moment of her awful fear she recognized him, and shrank back trembling, as though some unseen hand had palsied her tongue, and laid a cold weight upon her heart. They stood face to face, breathless and speechless. A host of forgotten sensations, kindled by her appearance, had leaped up within the Sicilian's heart. He had indeed loved this woman.

"Merciful God! to meet you here," she faltered. "You will help me? Oh, you will help me? My husband is being murdered there on the cliff by an escaped lunatic. Oh! Leonardo, save him, and you may strike me dead at your feet. It is I whom you should hate, not him. Oh, come! Come, or it will be too late!"

"And it is I to whom you dare to come for help—I whom you ask to save him—your husband? Adrienne, do you remember my words on the sands at Palermo?"

She wrung her hands, frantically imploring.

"How can I remember anything—think of anything, now? For the love of God, help him," she begged, seizing his hand. "That was all so long ago. You would not have him killed here before my eyes? Come? Oh, do come!"

"Lead the way," he answered sternly. "Call your loudest for other help. I make no promise, but I will see this tragedy."

Lord and Lady Lumley had lingered long in Rome, and now, on the eve of their departure, they had spent the whole of a bright November afternoon buying curios of a wizened old dealer, whose shop they had found in one of the dark narrow streets at the back of the Palazzo Angelo. Lady Lumley had taken up a curious old ring, and was examining it with a vague sense of familiarity.

"Ten pounds for that ring, my lady," the curio dealer remarked, "and it has a history. You will see that it bears the arms and motto of the Marionis, once the most powerful family in Sicily. I had it from the late Count himself."

Lady Lumley sank into the little chair by the counter, holding the ring tightly in her hand.

"Will you tell us the history?" she asked in a low tone.

The man hesitated. "If I do so," he said doubtfully, "will you promise to keep it absolutely secret?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, I have told it to no one yet, but I will tell it to you. Many years ago I was a chemist, and among my customers was Count Leonardo di Marioni. His history was a very sad one, as doubtless you may have heard. When he was quite a young man he was arrested on some political charge, and imprisoned for five-and-twenty years—a cruel time. Well, scarcely more than twelve months ago he came to me here, so altered that I found it hard indeed to recognize him. Poor old gentleman, when he had talked for a while, I felt quite sure that his long confinement had affected his mind, and his errand with me made me sure of it. He came to buy a celebrated poison which I used at one time to be secretly noted for, and I could tell from his manner that he wanted it for some fatal use. Well, I thought at first of refusing it altogether, but what was the use of that? Some one else would have sold him an equally powerful poison, and the mischief would be done all the same. So, after a little consideration, I made up quite an innocent powder, which might cause a little momentary faintness, but which could do no further harm, and I gave it to him as the real thing. I couldn't take money for doing a thing like that, so he pressed this ring upon me. You see, it really has a history."

Lord Lumley took his wife's hand and pressed it tenderly. In the deep gloom of the shop the curio dealer could not see the tears which glistened in her dark eyes. "We will have the ring!" Lord Lumley said, taking a note from his pocket-book and handing it across the counter.

The man held it up to the light. "One hundred pounds," he remarked. "I shall owe your lordship ninety."

Lord Lumley shook his head. "No, Signor Paschuli, you owe me nothing; it is I who owe you a wife. Come, Margharita, let us get out into the sunshine again."

And Signor Paschuli kept the note. But he has come to the conclusion that all Englishmen traveling on their honeymoon are mad.

Twelfth Installment

His withered figure seemed to have gathered strength and dignity, and his appearance and tone, as he gazed scornfully down at the girl at his feet, was full of a strange dramatic force. Her heart sank as she listened to him. This was no idle, vulgar passion, no morbid craving for evil, which animated him. It was a purpose which had become hallowed to him; something which he had come to look upon as his sacred right. She understood how her drawing back must seem to him. As though a flash of light had laid bare his mind, she saw how weak, how pitifully weak, any words of hers must sound, so she was silent.

He had commenced walking up and down the room; and, watching him fearfully, she saw that his manner was gradually changing. The unnatural calm into which he had momentarily relapsed was leaving him, and he was becoming every moment more and more excited. Fire flashed in his eyes, and he was muttering broken words and sentences to himself. Once he raised his clasped hands to the roof in a threatening gesture, and in the act of doing so she saw the blue flash of a stiletto in his breast pocket. It frightened her, and she moved toward the door.

It seems almost as though he read her purpose in her terror-stricken face, and it maddened him. He caught her by the wrist and thrust her back.

"You shall not leave this room, girl!" he cried. "Wait, and soon I will bring you news."

She stood, still panting, overcome for a moment by the strength of his grip. Before she could recover herself, he had caught up his hat and was gone. Outside, she heard the sound of a key in the lock. She was a prisoner!

Her first thought was the window. Alas! it was too small even for her to get her head through. She cried out. No one answered; there was no one to answer. She was alone in the cottage, and helpless, and away over the cliffs, toward Mallory Grange, she could see a small, dark figure walking steadily along, with bent head and swift steps. The cottage stood by itself, a mile from the village, and was approached only by a cliff path. She turned away from the window in despair. It seemed to her then that the time for her final sacrifice had indeed come.

It was a warm, drowsy morning, and the air which floated in through the open lattice window was heavy with the perfume of flowers, mingled with the faint ozone of the sea. Outside, the placid silence was broken only by the murmurous buzzing of insects and the soft lapping of the tide upon the shingly sands. Within the room, a pale-faced girl knelt upon the floor, with her long, slim fingers stretched upward, and the passionate despair of death in her cold, white features. The sunshine laughed upon her hair, and glanced around her, bathing her beautiful face in its fresh, bright glory. Was it an answer to her prayer, she wondered—her prayer for peace and forgiveness? Oh, that it might be so! God grant it!

There was no fear in her face, though only a moment before she had taken out and swallowed the contents of that little packet of poison which had burned in her bosom for those last few days. But there had been just one passing shade of bitterness. Her life had been so short, so joyless, until there had come to her that brief taste of wonderful, amazing happiness. She was young to die—to die with the delirium of that passionate joy still burning in her veins.

"Yet, after all, it is best!" she whispered softly, at the end of that unspoken prayer; and with those words of calm resignation, a change crept softly in upon her face. It seemed almost as though, while yet on earth, there had come to her a touch of that exquisite spiritual beauty which follows only upon the extinction of all earthly passion, and the uplifting into a purer, sweeter life. And her eyes closed upon the sunlight, and darkness stole in upon her senses. She lay quite still upon the floor; but the smile still lingered upon her lips, making her face more lovely even in its cold repose than when the glow of youth and life had shone in her dark, clear eyes, and lent expression to her features. Saints like St. Francis of Assisi may die thus, but seldom women.

"Help! For God's sake, help!" A woman's cry of agony rang out upon the sweet morning stillness. Count Marioni, who had been hurrying on with downcast head, stood still in the cliff path and lifted his head. It was the woman whose memory he had cursed who stood before him—the woman on whom his vengeance was to fall.

Her face was as white as his own, and in the swiftness of her flight her hat had fallen away and her hair was streaming in the breeze. Yet in that moment of her awful fear she recognized him, and shrank back trembling, as though some unseen hand had palmed her tongue, and laid a cold weight upon her heart. They stood face to face, breathless and speechless. A host of forgotten sensations, kindled by her appearance, had leaped up within the Sicilian's heart. He had indeed loved this woman.

"Merciful God! to meet you here," she faltered. "You will help me? Oh, you will help me? My husband is being murdered there on the cliff by an escaped lunatic. Oh! Leonardo, save him, and you may strike me dead at your feet. It is I whom you should hate, not him. Oh, come! Come, or it will be too late!"

"And it is I to whom you dare to come for help—I whom you ask to save him—your husband? Adrienne, do you remember my words on the sands at Palermo?"

She wrung her hands, frantically imploring.

"How can I remember anything—think of anything, now? For the love of God, help him," she begged, seizing his hand. "That was all so long ago. You would not have him killed here before my eyes? Come? Oh, do come!"

"Lead the way," he answered sternly. "Call your loudest for other help. I make no promise, but I will see this tragedy."

She ran back along the path, and he followed her. They turned suddenly an abrupt corner, and came upon two men locked in one another's arms, and swaying backward and forward upon the short green turf. The lunatic, an immense fellow, more than six feet high, was clutching his opponent's throat with his left hand, while with his right he brandished a long table-knife with keenly-sharpened edge. The struggle was virtually over. The madman's strength was more than human, and desperately though he had struggled, Lord St. Maurice was lying exhausted and overcome in his arms.

With a final effort he turned his head at the sound of footsteps, and saw them come—his wife and this shrunken little old man. But close at hand though they were, nothing could help him now. He saw the steel flashing in the sunlight, and he closed his eyes. The knife descended, but Lord St. Maurice remained unhurt. With a swiftness which seemed almost incredible, the Sicilian had sprung between them, and the knife was quivering in his side. Behind, the lunatic was struggling helplessly in the grasp of three keepers.

There was a wild cry of horror from Lady St. Maurice, a choking gasp of relief from her husband, and a horrid chuckle of triumph from the madman as he gazed upon his handiwork. But after that there was silence—a deep, awe-stricken silence—the silence of those who stand in the presence of death.

Count Marioni lay on the turf where he had sunk, very white and very still, with the blood drooping

so altered that I found it hard indeed to recognize him. Poor old gentleman, when he had talked for a while, I felt quite sure that his long confinement had affected his mind, and his errand with me made me sure of it. He came to buy a celebrated poison which I used at one time to be secretly noted for, and I could tell from his manner that he wanted it for some fatal use. Well, I thought at first of refusing it altogether, but what was the use of that? Some one else would have sold him an equally powerful poison, and the mischief would be done all the same. So, after a little consideration, I made up quite an innocent powder, which might cause a little momentary faintness, but which could do no further harm, and I gave it to him as the real thing. I couldn't take money for doing a thing like that, so he pressed this ring upon me. You see, it really has a history."

Lord Lumley took his wife's hand and pressed it tenderly. In the deep gloom of the shop the curio dealer could not see the tears which glistened in her dark eyes.

"We will have the ring!" Lord Lumley said, taking a note from his pocket-book and handing it across the counter.

The man held it up to the light. "One hundred pounds," he remarked. "I shall owe your lordship ninety."

Lord Lumley shook his head. "No, Signor Paschuli, you owe me nothing; it is I who owe you a wife. Come, Margharita, let us get out into the sunshine again."

And Signor Paschuli kept the note. But he has come to the conclusion that all Englishmen traveling on their honeymoon are mad.

Upchurch Advises Seed Treatment to Prevent Smut Loss

County Agent W. H. Upchurch, in a study of smut infection of wheat and grain sorghums, has discovered that the 10 per cent "smut tax" can be prevented through proper treatment of the seed, he said in a statement today.

Mr. Upchurch's plan involved dusting of the seed grain with copper carbonate. Harm of any sort to the seed cannot occur from making the treatment, he said.

The county agent's statement in full was:

For many years wheat growers in most of the wheat growing sections of the country have been bothered with a disease of wheat called bunt or stinking smut. The disease changes the grain into masses of smut spores called "smut balls" which have an offensive odor, but inasmuch as it does not destroy the straw or chaff, the disease is not easily detected except for the odor.

Many farmers do not notice a slight infestation of smut in wheat because in threshing with combines out in the open air the smut is mostly blown away. However the disease is carried over to next year's crop by sowing seed infested with the spores from the smut balls broken in threshing.

Combines used in threshing wheat serve to scatter smut all over the country by this process and smut may occur in new fields even though clean seed is used.

This same smut disease or a very similar one, occurs in all the grain sorghums and in most varieties of the sweet sorghums. It seems to be especially bad in the Sumac or Red Top variety.

Last year we saw fields in Randall county with as much as 20% of the heads of this variety destroyed with smut. The loss from smut in the feed crops is greater than the loss of yield would indicate because of the damage to live stock fed on smutted feed.

Last year we also found many fields of grain sorghum yielding 40 bushels or more per acre with a smut loss of at least 10%. A little calculating will show that the smut tax on all such fields is a pretty heavy loss.

I am told that the total of County, State and School district taxes on farm land in Randall county is less than 15c per acre on the average. This may be a pretty heavy burden to some farmers who have a $5000 a year income and a $4900 operating expense, yet none of us seem to be able to do much about it. Yet we can abolish the smut tax by treating the planting seed.

For years the wheat growers have made some progress in the control of smut in wheat by treating the seed wheat with formaldehyde. In the past few years there has been developed a new method of treating both wheat and the various grain sorghum crops with the dust treatment, or copper carbonate treatment. This treatment consists of covering the seed with copper carbonate dust, using about three ounces per bushel of seed. This may be done by any device that will confine the seed and dust together. One of the best methods of doing this is to shake the seed and copper carbonate together in an air tight container such as a milk can.

The copper carbonate treatment has several advantages over the old methods. It is cheap. It is easily applied. It is convenient. It does not injure the germination. There is no danger of using too much copper carbonate as there is no damage done by using more than is necessary. Seed may be kept dry and used at any time after treating.

Copper carbonate may be had at 25c per pound. One pound will treat from four to six bushels of seed depending on the method used. This makes the cost of treating as low as one quarter of a cent per acre for maize and a little more for other grains. When we consider that this will prevent smut losses of anywhere from a few cents to several dollars per acre it seems that it is good business to treat all planting seed. Many farmers make a practice of treating all planting seed used as they have found that this dry treatment is at least 98% effective on the average. Failures to control smut by this method can nearly always be traced to faulty methods used in mixing the copper carbonate and the seed.

Upchurch Advises Seed Treatment to Prevent Smut Loss

County Agent W. H. Upchurch, in a study of smut infection of wheat and grain sorghums, has discovered that the 10 per cent "smut tax" can be prevented thru proper treatment of the seed, he said in a statement today.

Mr. Upchurch's plan involved dusting of the seed grain with copper carbonate. Harm of any sort to the seed cannot occur from making the treatment, he said.

The county agent's statement in full was:

For many years wheat growers in most of the wheat growing sections of the country have been bothered with a disease of wheat called bunt or stinking smut. The disease changes the grain into masses of smut spores called "smut balls" which have an offensive odor, but inasmuch as it does not destroy the straw or chaff, the disease is not easily detected except for the odor.

Many farmers do not notice a slight infestation of smut in wheat because in threshing with combines out in the open air the smut is mostly blown away. However the disease is carried over to next year's crop by sowing seed infested with the spores from the smut balls broken in threshing.

Combines used in threshing wheat serve to scatter smut all over the country by this process and smut may occur in new fields even though clean seed is used.

This same smut disease or a very similar one, occurs in all the grain sorghums and in most varieties of the sweet sorghums. It seems to be especially bad in the Sumac or Red Top variety.

Last year we saw fields in Randall county with as much as 20% of the heads of this variety destroyed with smut. The loss from smut in the feed crops is greater than the loss of yield would indicate because of the damage to live stock fed on smutted feed.

Last year we also found many fields of grain sorghum yielding 40 bushels or more per acre with a smut loss of at least 10%. A little calculating will show that the smut tax on all such fields is a pretty heavy loss.

I am told that the total of Sounty, State and School district taxes on farm land in Randall county is less than 15c per acre on the average. This may be a pretty heavy burden to some farmers who have a $5000 a year income and a $4900 operating expense, yet none of us seem to be able to do much about it. Yet we can abolish the smut tax by treating the planting seed.

For years the wheat growers have made some progress in the control of smut in wheat by treating the seed wheat with formaldehyde. In the past few years there has been developed a new method of treating both wheat and the various grain sorghum crops with the dust treatment, or copper carbonate treatment. This treatment consists of covering the seed with copper carbonate dust, using about three ounces per bushel of seed. This may be done by any device that will confine the seed and dust together. One of the best methods of doing this is to shake the seed and copper carbonate together in an air tight container such as a milk can.

The copper carbonate treatment has several advantages over the old methods. It is cheap. It is easily applied. It is convenient. It does not injure the germination. There is no danger of using too much copper carbonate as there is no damage done by using more than is necessary. Seed may be kept dry and used at any time after treating.

Copper carbonate may be had at 25c per pound. One pound will treat from four to six bushels of seed depending on the method used. This makes the cost of treating as low as one quarter of a cent per acre for maize and a little more for other grains. When we consider that this will prevent smut losses of anywhere from a few cents to several dollars per acre it seems that it is good business to treat all planting seed. Many farmers make a practice of treating all planting seed used as they have found that this dry treatment is at least 98% effective on the average. Failures to control smut by this method can nearly always be traced to faulty methods used in mixing the copper carbonate and the seed.

Latin Tournament Big Success; Oressa Hastings and Sybil Gidden Win Loving Cup

One of the most delightful occasions that the Latin classes of Canyon have ever enjoyed occurred last week when the District Latin Tournament met in this city. Every thing went off with a bang! The Latin students of the High School and W. T. hardly realized that the long-expected days for the tourney had actually arrived last Thursday, and now that it is over, it seems to have been a dream. The people of Canyon were ready and eager to welcome the many guests Thursday evening, as they gradually were arriving from the different towns.

Thursday evening the tournament really commenced. "Latin Tourney Taxis" were very busy until about ten o'clock meeting trains and transporting guests to their assigned homes. But the largest business was the enrolling Friday morning, beginning at nine o'clock.

A large number arrived Thursday, but still there were many more towns which came Friday morning.

Along with many other guests, Miss Margaret Cotham, state supervisor of Latin, arrived with flying colors, to enjoy this District Tournament. It was a great honor to have Miss Cotham here. She assisted in grading and was the main speaker at the banquet Friday night.

At ten o'clock there was a program in the High School auditorium, given by the music and expression departments. The contestants enjoyed it very much. It was a great help in passing away the morning hours.

About eleven-thirty a hot chicken dinner was served in the Home Economic Rooms to all guests. The Parent Teachers' Association was in charge of the dinner. Mrs. Upchurch being chairman. Every one seemed to enjoy it very much.

Then tests began. From twelve-thirty to three-thirty every contestant did his best and tried to achieve the highest grade. But finally it proved that only a few could receive honors.

Everyone was invited to visit the Educational Building at the college as soon as the tests were finished. An exhibit and a one-act play was planned for their entertainment there. Both proved to be very interesting and entertaining.

After the tests all guests and contestants looked forward to the main feature of the tournament—the banquet Friday night. About seven o'clock they began arriving in the reception room at Cousins Hall. Everyone seemed to be feeling fine and in high spirits, especially when they entered the beautiful decorated dining room.

The candle light and burning incense gave the room a soft, restful appearance. The program of the evening was as follows:

A CLEAR, smooth, lovely skin bespeaks rich, red blood. It is Nature's outward reflection of the condition within you.

Men and women, both justly covet admiration. Everyone can expect such satisfaction to its fullest extent if they are the possessors of a clear unblemished skin.

If you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema—you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

THE SOPHOMORES

The sophomore pupils are hardest to beat; They rival the juniors in all but conceit; In speaking of girls or most popular boy, We prove to all present our rating is high.

We represent talent in most every line; Wherever you try them, the Sophs are sure fine. We ask you to listen while we sing you a song, Of the sophomore pupils and where they belong. We belong to the top; we can prove it to you. For there's nothing in school that the sophomores can't do. We're the best bunch of Sophs ever seen in this school, And we'll be the best Juniors compared to the list.

And when we are seniors, look out for our class, We'll unfurl a standard no one can surpass. For practice makes perfect, and we've started in. All honors in studies and athletics to win.

We have the best teachers in all the High School; They've helped us to climb and taught us the rule. Of fair play and hard work and courage to try. We can't help but win with such friends standing by.

We have the best school on top of the plains. Whether you think so or not, the fact still remains. Old Canyon High School always takes the high score. We're the blue ribbon school, no use to say more.

We have the best county by any old test, For the future of Texas depends on our best. And we have the best state, our Texas so grand; She's man's perfect vision of our ideal land.

We're full blooded Americans; we have the best state. The best county and city, and school up-to-date. One more question you ask, the Sophs here reply, "We're the very best pupils of old Canyon High."

RECITAL

Next Thursday night, April 18, at eight o'clock the music department will present the Misses Margaret Gamble and Dorothy Faye Rusk in a recital. These two accomplished juniors will be assisted by Miss Harriet Dickinson of the public speaking department, and also a member of the senior class.

Fifty-Seven Enjoy "Senior Day" at Lighthouse Canyon

The Seniors met at the high school Tuesday night and planned to have the "Senior Sneak Day" on Wednesday. The members of the class decorated the halls and rooms with purple and white paper. At eight-thirty Wednesday morning fifty-seven seniors were ready to leave for the light house canyons. Some of the students had not seen any canyons before, therefore it was interesting to listen to the different conversations. Each truck was crowded, but that did not seem to make any difference because one was out for a good time.

The lunch was carried to the light house, and about eleven thirty, the cries "I'm sure hungry," were heard all around. After dinner some one mentioned going to the spring to get some water. All but a very few wanted to go, so they started out climbing the steepest hills that could be found. One of the girls became very weak before the top was reached, and the boys carried her the rest of the way.

The bunch returned to Canyon at five o'clock and not a one returned with a blistered face or arms.

Hurrah! Only four more weeks of school for the seniors. And then the fun starts. Baccalaureate, senior play, class day, class night, and commencement, you can't miss it. Invitations and cards are already here; plans for the Trophy Case are being made, and pictures are being taken.

In the past several weeks a large number of the seniors have had their pictures made, and we expect the entire group to be completed by the end of this week. The pictures will be hung in a large frame in Mr. Carruth's office.

Interscholastic Meet To Be Held Here Friday-Saturday

The annual Interscholastic League Meet will be held in the Buffalo Park Friday and Saturday. Canyon High School has high hopes for some of the many awards to be given.

There will be contests in pole vault, high and broad jump, races, discus throw, javelin throw, hammer throw, tennis and other sports, declamations, debates, etc.

Canyon High School wishes the visitors who will come from over the Panhandle a hearty and sincere welcome.

"We'll beat you if we can. But we'll treat you like a man."

Friday Afternoon Brings Big Time for Many Juniors

On Friday before Saturday of April 12 as a result of a snappy Junior class meeting Thursday at noon, the honorable junior class had a very romantic moonlight picnic—even if it did start at six o'clock.

At five thirty o'clock Friday afternoon the junior class met on the high school steps and then went to the rarest of rare places, Hale's Park. Since all the cars in Canyon were either in the garage or out of gasoline, a few of the juniors were a little bit footsore Saturday. After arriving at that wonderful place where the rippling brook makes beautiful music gurgling over the rocks and where the tall hack-berry trees sway in a cool breeze, a few romantic games such as leap frog were played.

About seven o'clock a fire was built and wieners were roasted and marshmallows were toasted. Everyone seemed to have plenty to eat because many wieners were left. After looking at the moon for a while the hike was started back to town. By this time, however, several cars had arrived but to the disappointment of everyone they returned to town empty.

Somebody please ask R. T. if he had a good time Friday night, riding under the beautiful moon, courting a pretty vacant seat at his side.

This picnic is one of the many entertainments which the Juniors have had this year and every one really had a good time.

"I was determined to have a Clear Skin"

A CLEAR, smooth, lovely skin bespeaks rich, red blood. It is Nature's outward reflection of the condition within you.

Men and women, both justly covet admiration. Everyone can expect such satisfaction to its fullest extent if they are the possessors of a clear unblemished skin.

If you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema—you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

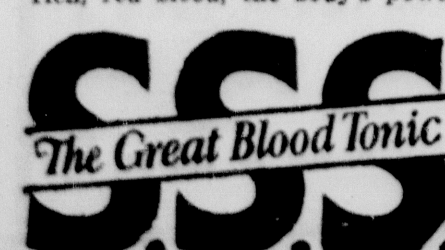

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, the body's power of resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite improves; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You sleep soundly. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. S.S.S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. Seek energy, vitality, and a clear skin, through the great blood tonic which is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

GRADE JERSEY ESTABLISHES
RECORD WITH BUTTERFAT

Brindle, grade Jersey, owned by H. R. Fulton, set a new record for the Deaf Smith-Randall Cow Testing Association last month by producing 80.9 pounds of butterfat, according to the records of Carl Marsh, official tester.

Twenty-five cows made the honor rolls of the association last month by producing 1,000 pounds of milk or 40 pounds of butterfat.

The records of the association show that during the past three months, three cows have made the honor roll each month. Red, a grade Holstein, owned by G. Bilgri, produced 3,853 pounds of milk in the three months. Dora, grade Guernsey owned by A. P. Morrow, produced 126.3 pounds of butterfat in the same period.

Our Poultry Column

It is Not All Gold That Glitters

One question comes up in the minds of many people, the question is, What can I do to make a living? The majority of people, confronted with this question, have no capital, whatever they undertake, must be in a small way. Many of these could arrange to raise a little money if they were sure they could invest it in something that is a profitable business. Before we attempt to answer this question, we want to make a few statements that should be kept in mind, whenever you are thinking or dreaming of going into the poultry business.

1. It requires and calls for hard work 365 days in the year, to make money in the poultry business.
2. It requires detail, close observation, and good judgment to make a success.
3. Like other industries, the poultry business is subject to the cycle of poor and good years.

4. Like other lines of activities the chicken business, to some, means failure and disappointment.

5. Like all means of making a living the poultry business, is full of opportunities, but you can only expect to gather success in the proportion you devote your time and energy to its success.

"I made more money from my hens than from 200 acres of cotton," says John Cavett.

Three Years' Returns From a Farm Poultry Flock

1925-26—No. Hens, 421; eggs per hen 142; gross income, $1981.32; feed cost $1108.24; net profit $873.08.

1926-27, hens 648; eggs per hen 142; income $2848.95; feed cost, $2018.92; net profit, $830.03.

1927-28, hens 1000; eggs per hen 145; income $4590.31; feed cost $3050.40; net profit $1539.91.

Mr. Cavett made the statement, "I made more money from my hens, both in 1927 and in 1928 and also in 1926 than from my share from 150 to 200 acres of cotton." Mr. Cavett gives the following figures relative to the income from his cotton crop in 1926, 1927 and 1928. Here is what he says: "I farm all of my land on shares and have had an average of 7 families, about 25 workers counting women and children. In 1926 my share of the cotton crop (which is one half of the total number of bales produced) was 30 bales which sold for $1,720. In 1927 I had 27 bales which sold for $2,810. In 1928 there were only 13 bales which brought $1,225.

These figures all represent gross sales, not net. I have no record of the expense of the cotton crop, but know that in 1926 and 1928 crops were made at a loss."

When you look at the above picture, poultry raising looks much more promising. We do believe that in the poultry business, the chances of making a good living, are at least ten times as good as in cotton farming. Poultry farming requires regular work 365 days in the year. I suppose in the case of cotton farming, you do not have to work as many hours and not as many days, but remember you have to eat every day.

LIFE'S "SERIOUS THOUGHTS"—AND OURS

"Have you seen Lucy?" asked one of the guests when they met in the smoking room. "She's here as the 'Essence of Innocence'."

"Is that what she's representing?" the other retorted in amazement. "I thought by the brevity of her costume that she came as the 'Spirit of Forgetfulness'."

CLASSIC ART deliberately utilized in motor car design

The dynamic symmetry of Chrysler fender contours and wheels finds its counterpart in the "wave border" of classic architecture and design.

THAT Chrysler motor cars are so different in appearance from all other motor cars is not to be wondered at in view of the unique plan by which their remarkable beauty has been attained.

Chrysler engineers recognized, as no others had recognized, that true beauty in automobile design must come, not from a chance inspiration of individual designers, but from a conscious and deliberate plan.

Guided by glorious precedents in art, architecture and design, they applied the authentic forms of beauty which have come down the centuries unchallenged and unsurpassed and translated them into terms of motor car utility and beauty.

It is because Chrysler style and beauty have this secure artistic foundation that they have won the admiration and enthusiasm of thousands upon thousands the country over.

KISSING

Opinions on kissing differ. First the health experts warned us all against it as a promulgator of colds and more serious illnesses.

Now science tells us that kissing is an exercise that makes for health by speeding up sluggish hearts and increasing the circulation of the blood, and recently a group of chorus girls took part in a scientific kissing test which showed that the stimulus of kissing created a real good response for a health standpoint.

We are waiting for the doctors to begin prescribing kisses, and for men and women to walk about with special doctor's certificates entitling them to spoon in public for the sake of health.

Men who haven't done so for years will begin kissing their wives with great ardor—what difference that will make in matrimony and the entire field of domestic relations! And then perhaps kissing will be made compulsory in the interests of science and health. What we are afraid of is that once this happens people will begin to lose interest in the time-honored game of osculation.

Highways are Happy Ways--- Electricity Made Them So

Ribbons of concrete, beckoning you to ride! Are they so far removed in relationship to electrical dynamos which provide your electric lights at home? Are they not closely linked?

Randall County is just embarking upon the greatest road-building program in her history. Concrete highways will eventually extend in every direction. And electric power will play a tremendous, vital part in that vast program.

In the gravel-pits and sand-pits, great shovels and cranes are at work today, getting the material from the earth which will be used as a basis for the concrete roads. Such equipment is largely powered by electricity.

In the cement plants the huge grinders, sifters and other machines are nearly all electric-driven.

Electric sand dredgers, loaders and pumps play a big part in the building of highways after they have been graded and levelled.

In almost every activity of life, from dawn to dark and throughout the night, electricity is always at your beck and call. Everything you see might well remind you of this ever-present servant—even the pavement over which your car so smoothly glides.

Yes, highways are happy ways—electricity helps make them so!

18 CHILDREN IN 9 YEARS THE PRESIDENT WILL BOSS STRANGE OLD CHINESE MCNARY ASKS ADVICE

Let ladies who feel they really "can't afford more than two children with everything so expensive," consider Frau Alfred Voellner, of Demmin, Germany. Twenty-eight years old, she has eighteen children, all under nine years of age. She had a boy in 1920, a girl in 1922 and four sets of quadruplets in 1923, 1925, 1927, and 1929, sixteen children in four births. All are alive, ten boys, eight girls.

It is said that during the war that because conquerors no longer dragged women away into slavery, Germany would soon recover.

Frau Voellner confirms that. Washington says President Hoover intends to be the boss of his party. He might well, since it gave him 22,000,000 votes. Republicans of the South are told the Republican party must be reconstructed there on a sound, permanent basis, on the assumption that the war is past and forgotten, and that the South will join Republican prosperity, politically, if the Republicans behave themselves.

Selling Federal offices to the highest bidder is to be stopped. Some Congressmen insist that President Hoover must write a farm relief bill and let the party pass it. The President will probably say, "No, you write it and pass it. If it isn't too foolish I will sign it."

It is not easy to confer to a disorganized industry, millions of men on millions of farms, producing without method or plan, the prosperity enjoyed by well organized production industry that pays good dividends.

A very old Chinese statesman named Wu Tze-Hui was one of three that, on their word of honor, guaranteed the life and safety of Li Chai-sun, governor of Canton.

Li Chai-sun was executed by the Nationalists, in spite of the guarantee. The aged Wu Tze-Hui considered himself disgraced and killed himself, although he had nothing to do with the execution of the man guaranteed. Many Westerners will find it difficult to understand that suicide.

Senator McNary, head of the Committee on Farm Relief, asks John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Henry Ford, Charles M. Schwab, J. P. Morgan, Paul M. Warburg and Owen D. Young to give advice.

That interesting collection of farmers would probably tell the farmers first of all to organize their business, eliminate lost motion and time, including an hour and a half for the hired man to harness and unharness the team. But Rockefeller, Schwab and Young decline to advise. Morgan is in Europe. The farmers will have to work out their own problem.

Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to cross the Arctic in a submarine, under the ice to map out the depth of water, shape of the basin containing the Arctic, etc.

He would follow cracks in the ice, coming up every twenty-four hours to recharge batteries.

Thus for thousands of years, the seal and walrus have explored Arctic and Antarctic seas. They have known how to keep holes in the ice open all through the winter, for breathing and observation. The lower animals show us, we improve on their methods.

If you lay down on the job, it is very apt to wriggle out from under you.

The nature and importance of recreation in the Christian's life were explained and emphasized in the Epworth League program. The M. M. Beavers League gave a thoughtful discussion entertaining the College League. Miss Mattie Jordan, president of the College League expressed the thanks of the entire group for the invitation.

The Backward Party, planned for this week at the home of Mrs. J. D. Gamble is postponed until Tuesday, April 23.

Here's Feed for Chicks!

WALK in and let's talk over what to give your chicks to keep them alive and growing. Let us show you a way to raise your chicks to early maturity at a lower cost per chick.

Chicks need cod-liver oil to protect them against leg weakness. They need butter-milk, alfalfa leaf meal, granulated meat, bone meal, wheat germ and other ingredients to make bone, flesh and feathers.

We have all of these ingredients carefully chosen, tested, balanced, uniformly mixed and ready to feed. Purina Chick Startena is the name of the feed. You'll know it by the checkerboard on the bag. The new feeding discoveries that come to you in this year's Startena will give 15 to 20 per cent greater growth than ever before. More than 2,500 hatcheries say, "Feed Startena." So do we. How many bags do you need?

They May Call You

When the firemen call, dressed for action, it is too late to think of insurance. The loss may be large—or the loss may be small—but a loss nevertheless unless you have your home and personal property well insured. Winter is the season of the year when fire losses are greatest. Putting off taking out a fire insurance policy is a gamble which no one can afford. Let us explain the economy which may be enjoyed in various kinds of policies.

18 CHILDREN IN 9 YEARS THE PRESIDENT WILL BOSS STRANGE OLD CHINESE McNARY ASKS ADVICE

Let ladies who feel they really "can't afford more than two children with everything so expensive," consider Frau Alfred Voellner, of Demmin, Germany. Twenty-eight years old, she has eighteen children, all under nine years of age. She had a boy in 1920, a girl in 1922 and four sets of quadruplets in 1923, 1925, 1927, and 1929, sixteen children in four births. All are alive, ten boys, eight girls.

It is said that during the war that because conquerors no longer dragged women away into slavery, Germany would soon recover. Frau Voellner confirms that.

Washington says President Hoover intends to be the boss of his party. He might well, since it gave him 22,000,000 votes. Republicans of the South are told the Republican party must be reconstructed there on a sound, permanent basis, on the assumption that the war is past and forgotten, and that the South will join Republican prosperity, politically, if the Republicans behave themselves.

Selling Federal offices to the highest bidder is to be stopped.

Some Congressmen insist that President Hoover must write a farm relief bill and let the party pass it. The President will probably say, "No, you write it and pass it. If it isn't too foolish I will sign it."

It is not easy to confer to a disorganized industry, millions of men on millions of farms, producing without method or plan, the prosperity enjoyed by well organized production industry that pays good dividends.

A very old Chinese statesman named Wu Tze-Hui was one of three that, on their word of honor, guaranteed the life and safety of Li Chai-sun, governor of Canton.

Li Chai-sun was executed by the Nationalists, in spite of the guarantee. The aged Wu Tze-Hui considered himself disgraced and killed himself, although he had nothing to do with the execution of the man guaranteed. Many Westerners will find it difficult to understand that suicide.

Senator McNary, head of the Committee on Farm Relief, asks John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Henry Ford, Charles M. Schwab, J. P. Morgan, Paul M. Warburg and Owen D. Young to give advice.

That interesting collection of farmers would probably tell the farmers first of all to organize their business, eliminate lost motion and time, including an hour and a half for the hired man to harness and unharness the team. But Rockefeller, Schwab and Young decline to advise. Morgan is in Europe. The farmers will have to work out their own problem.

Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to cross the Arctic in a submarine, under the ice to map out the depth of water, shape of the basin containing the Arctic, etc.

He would follow cracks in the ice, coming up every twenty-four hours to recharge batteries.

Thus for thousands of years, the seal and walrus have explored Arctic and Antarctic seas. They have known how to keep holes in the ice open all through the winter, for breathing and observation. The lower animals show us, we improve on their methods.

Recreation Week Being Observed by Methodist Church

In connection with the Epworth League program all churches of Southern Methodism are observing Recreation Week beginning Sunday, April 14. The Church in Canyon began the week with a sermon on Recreation and Christianity. In the absence of the pastor the Rev. J. E. Shewbert filled the pulpit.

The nature and importance of recreation in the Christian's life were explained and emphasized in the Epworth League program. The M. M. Beavers League gave a thoughtful discussion entertaining the College League. Miss Mattie Jordan, president of the College League expressed the thanks of the entire group for the invitation.

The Backward Party, planned for this week at the home of Mrs. J. D. Gamble is postponed until Tuesday, April 23.
